INSTITUTE OF THE AMERICAS

BIOGRAPHY

JORGE ROSENBLUT

IOA Board Chair Emeritus

Aventura, FL, USA

From November 2018 to November 2024, Jorge Rosenblut served as the Institute's Chairman of the Board.

After working for decades as an executive leader in private industry and government, Mr. JorgeĂ Rosenblut now works as an independent consultant to help clients incubate growth, encourageĂ evolution from legacy practice, and transform business models to manage disruption and re-emerge in their industries. From 2000 to 2015, Mr. Rosenblut acted as president and heldĂ Chairman of the Board roles within Enel Group (Endesa Spain), a global energy leader.

One of his key accomplishments was helping to direct the $16 billion split of Enersis into twoĂ separate entities –Enersis America and Enersis Chile, the largest corporate split ever executed inĂ Latin America. Prior to joining the ranks of corporate executives, Mr. Rosenblut held leadershipĂ roles in the Chilean government in the 1990s. He received his master's degree in PublicĂ Administration from the Harvard Kennedy School in 1985, and that year joined the World Bank inĂ Washington, DC. Mr. Rosenblut has been a Member of the Board of Directors of the Institute of theĂ Americas since 2014 and since November 2018 is serving as the Chairman of the Board. He isĂbased in Miami, Florida, and is the proud parent of a daughter working in Miami and a son who isĂnow exploring his early roots in Chile.

Copyright 2022, Institute of the Americas