INSTITUTE OF THE AMERICAS

GUIDO MAIULINI
Head of Strategic Advisory, OLACDE
& Non Resident Fellow, Institute of the Americas

BIOGRAPHY

Quito, Ecuador

Guido Maiulini is a diplomat and energy affairs specialist. He currently serves as Head of Strategic Advisory at the Latin American & Caribbean Energy Organization (OLACDE), where he leads the political and institutional strategy with a focus on energy transitions in Latin America and the Caribbean, promoting regional energy integration and sustainability.

He holds a Bachelor's degree in Literature from the University of Buenos Aires and is a graduate of the Argentine Foreign Service Institute. He has an outstanding career in the political-diplomatic management of energy integration processes in transition contexts, the design of strategies for climate change mitigation through sustainable policies, and the leadership of international negotiations and multilateral cooperation in the region.

Copyright 2026, Institute of the Americas